To be nobody-but-yourself in a world which is doing its best, night and day, to make you everybody else--means to fight the hardest battle which any human being can fight. . . .

e. e. cummings

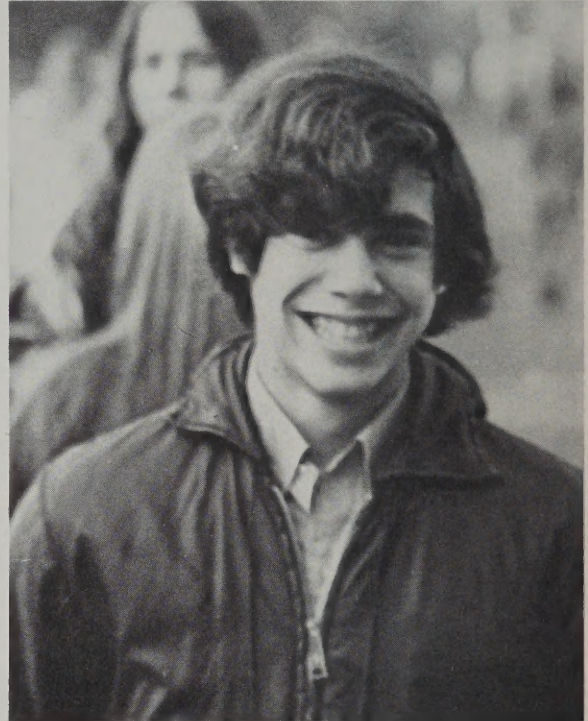

Friendship is one mind in two bodies.

Mencius

Happiness lies in the consciousness we have of it.
George Sand

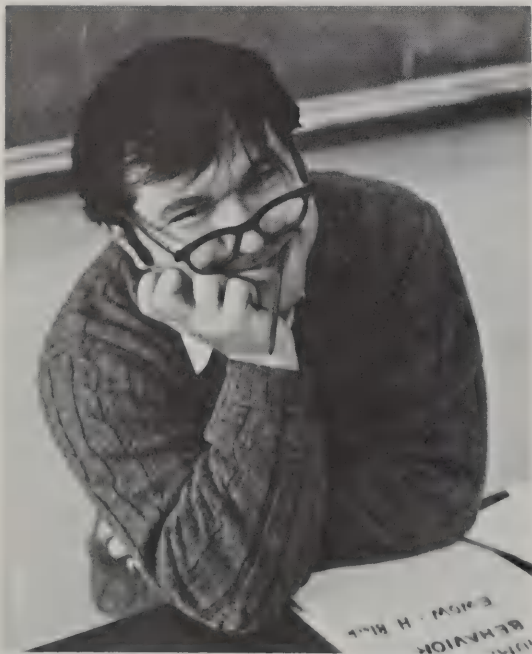

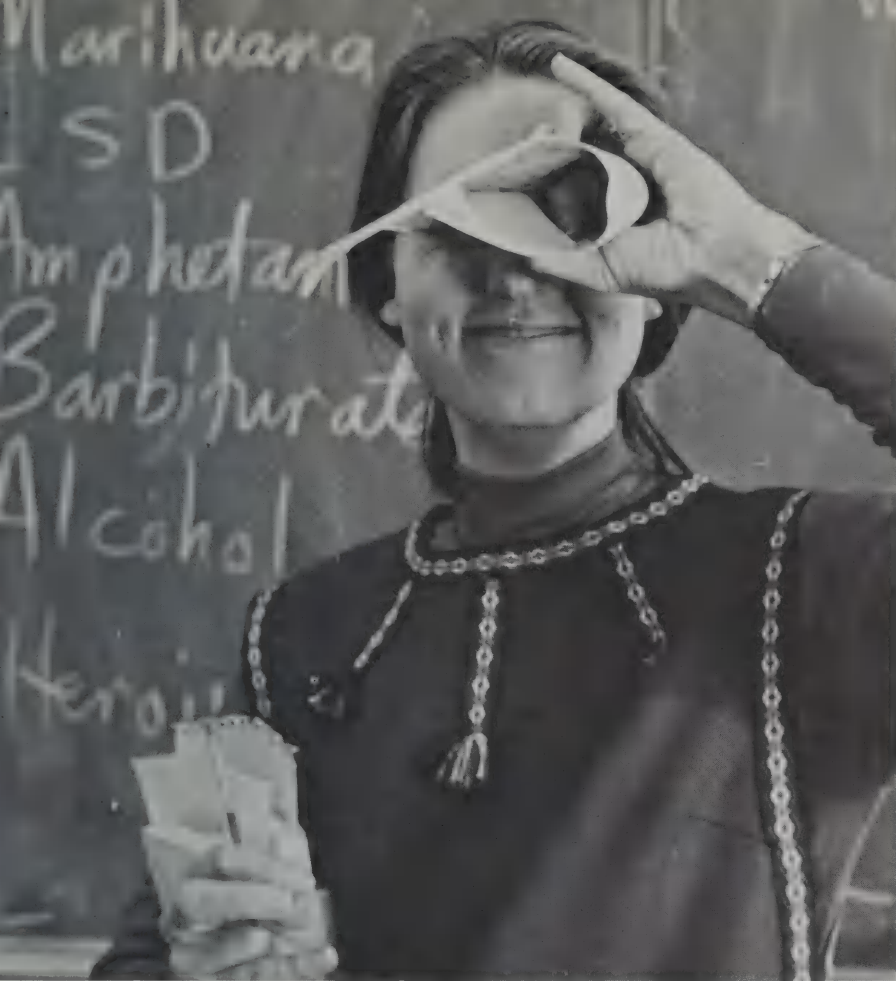

Most of the most important experiences that truly educate cannot be arranged ahead of time with any precision.

Harold Taylor

Only as long as we can we laugh at ourselves are we nobody else.
e. e. cummings

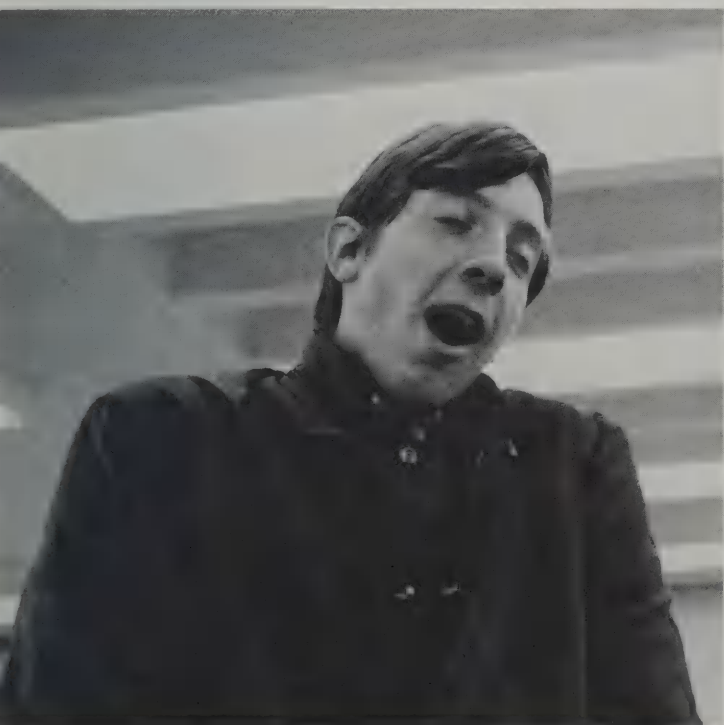

I exist as I am--that is enough.
Walt Whitman

I have never let my schooling interfere with my education.

Mark Twain

... and this is the weaving of human living: of whose fabric each individual is a part.

James Agree and Walker Evans

EDUCATION WITHOUT WALLS

Education Without Walls is a three-year-old program set up for junior and senior students to explore individual interests through creative, experimental projects and classes. Teachers and students work closely in solving problems and planning courses and projects. Students develop their own educational goals and responsibilities. Classes meet in the morning, and the afternoons are occupied with various cooperative experiences and work opportunities like tutoring, child care centers, silversmithing, courses at nearby colleges, photography, work with disturbed children, paid employment, and musical groups.

ECHO

WRESTLING

Wrestlers shake hands and then the matches begin. Skin and bones Bellows starts the meet by killing himself in his own guillotine. Then, "Come on Franceschi, let's get the six!" . . . "Let's go, Shawn! Pin him, Shawn!", or is it Russel?! . . . Tocci and Porter, a dynamic duo at the 121 pound class . . . Next comes the red haired *ras*sling Co-Captain John Ferris to even up the score . . . Jinxed: the 134 lb. class. First was Abell, then came Dubin, then Butler—all put out for the season with injuries . . . Out of the blue came Dexter, another Bellows. . . . At 140 lbs., Co-Captain Larry Way pins opponents with ease; need anymore be said? Then came the "Plank Special" for more points, and Bougas—may his opponents rest in peace. Then, watch out, for "Atlas" Alexander wrestles next. . . . Now appearing at 180 lbs. is Mark Berkowitz, the vicious grappler. The team was well rounded out by heavyweights Charlie Abate, who dominated the varsity spot, and by "Skinny Finny" Finlayson, who actually pinned an opponent. Much credit goes to Coach Porter, for without his outstanding coaching job, these memorable moments would not have been possible, and it is for this reason that the wrestling team has elected Coach Porter Rookie of the Year. The team did well this year, especially the following, who earned the indicated titles: John Ferris—sectional runner-up; Jim Bellows—sectional runner-up and third in Mass.; Larry Way—sectional champion, Mass. State champion, New England Champion, and candidate for the All-American Scholastic Wrestling Team.

"My stay here in Lexington as an American Field Service student from the Philippines has been a year of discovery, challenge, and amazement. Being another member of an American family, the Staceys, whose background, religion, and color are different from mine, and establishing a new and different life in this seemingly impersonal, co-ed school were not as easy as I wanted them to be. But, there were lots of compensations—I saw leaves change color; I saw SNOW for the first time! I began to see myself, my family back home, and my country in new and much broader perspectives. I got around. Although the pace of life here seemed like a big rush, I still found the universal qualities and frailties writers write about people sometimes amusing, admirable, sad, and humorous. When I go back to Alitagtag in the Philippines I will certainly miss this beautiful place and, most of all, the friends and people whose lives I have crossed. But I know there will never be PAALAM, because I am bringing all that there is to my AFS year back home."

HOCKEY

The 1971-2 Lexington hockey team enjoyed its most successful season in years. Improvements in the hockey scene this year were home ice advantage at Hayden and great spectator enthusiasm. The major factors contributing to our success, however, were the intense desire to win and the sincere pride held for the team by each player, coach, statistician, and manager. Co-Captains Bill Connelly and Scott MacKay provided excellent leadership both on and off the ice. The season was highlighted by many thrilling wins, in particular Woburn and Stoneham, along with great efforts against Wakefield and unbeaten Melrose. Tough Steve Perry, hustling John Gleason, and outstanding goalie John Riley provided inspiration to all members of the team. Dennis Lowry's steady play at defense added experience to this year's young team. A bright future is in store with many fine lettermen returning, led by John Fontas, the top scorer, and Mark Lowe, a hustling left-wing, as next year's co-captains.

Coach Boynton pays tribute to a great team . . .

Ron Lee put his most determined effort together for the Memorial game. From it he emerged as the publicly-recognized best player in the State of Massachusetts.

Wayne Morrison also put one of his best efforts forth against Memorial as he practiced the art in which he has excelled for two years—attacking defenses and presses and dissecting them like a surgeon.

Jack Flaherty catalyzed the team all year long. He quarter-backed our all-important press attacks and covered the prime opponent a great deal of the time. His finest hour was the Andover game.

Joe Cormier best revealed what he meant to us by his offensive efforts versus Lowell; against the big 6'6" Carmichael of Andover, he displayed his ability to cover the big post man.

Steve Singelais, who was a great offensive cog all year, turned defensive specialist down the stretch. His most outstanding performances were superb defensive stints versus Aronie of Concord and Cooper of Andover. His work opposite Marvelous Marv at B.C. will long be remembered by us (and by Safford).

Paul Jones, hampered by an injury early in the season, had to be content with the role of sixth man when a big man was needed. His constant contribution to our success was never more evident than in the close Stoneham game as he shut off McLaughlin and when he assisted Cormier with the coverage of the big Andover centers.

Curt Wolff was the sixth man when a guard was needed. His great hustle, spirit, and leadership were ever-present. When he was called upon to start in the schoolboy game of the century, he responded as we knew he would, with a great performance under enormous pressure. He guarded Gaskins the entire second half. The King had a lot of points, but his percentage from the floor was below his usual.

The rest of the squad was probably the deepest in talent ever. Most of our seniors could have been stars elsewhere.

Peter Matthews played the most important four minutes of his career versus Gaskins, holding him to one for eight from the floor during that time.

Directing the attack well against Memorial for a while was Jack Rosa. His most distinguished performance was probably his four assists and nine interceptions in a half of play versus Belmont.

Jim Johnson also had an effective stint at covering Gaskins, but contributed even more heavily to our survival in the close Stoneham game with a great defensive effort.

John Durkin had his finest hour against Melrose in our first encounter. At this point he showed great potential. Injuries and illness hampered his effectiveness but did not stop him from playing a key role in running the opponent's game plan in practice at tourney time. His fine spirit on the bench was always noteworthy.

The efforts of Bob Phelan, Bob LaBombard, and Chris Hayner were also instrumental in the development of good counter moves to the opponent's game plan.

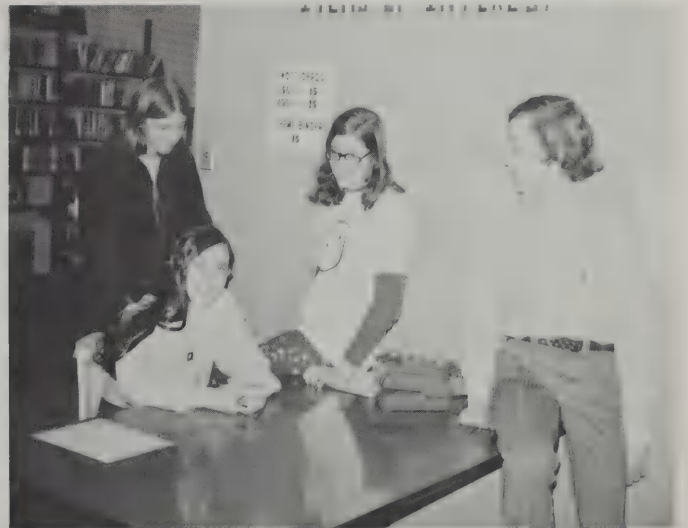

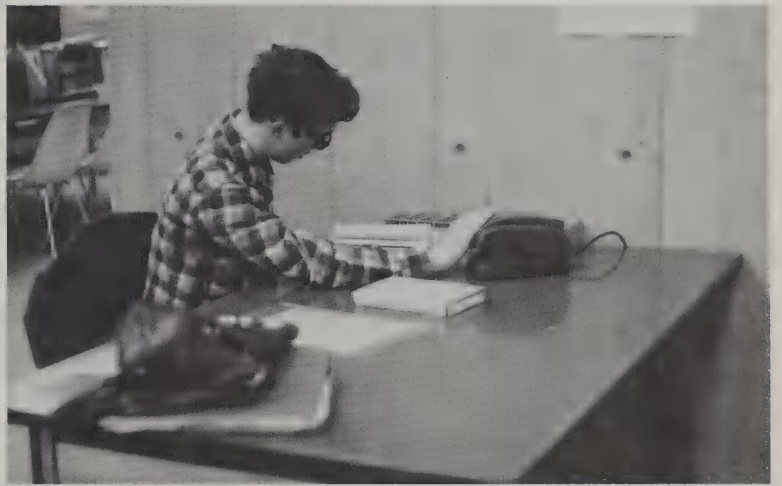

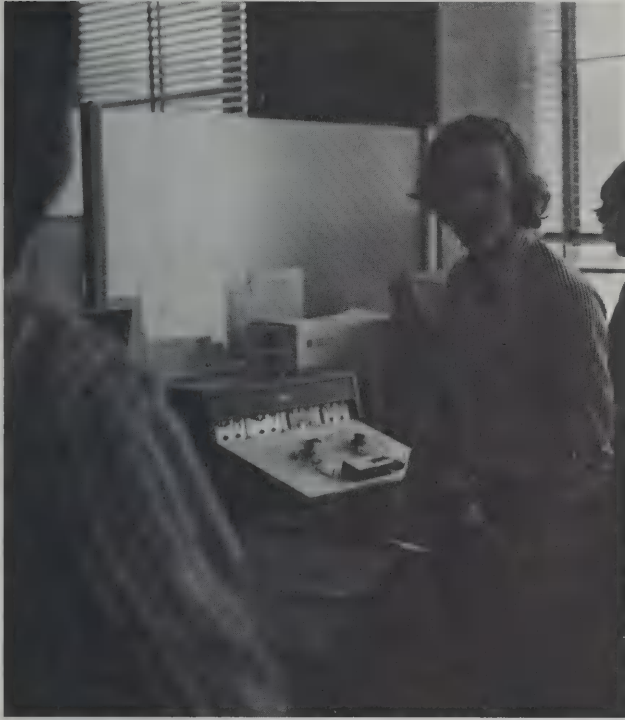

The overall team effort speaks for itself—extension of last year's great team record to 51 straight victories on the scoreboard and unprecedented back-to-back State Championships.

The Class of 1972 has witnessed and participated in some sweeping changes in the program, policies, and atmosphere of Lexington High School in the past four years. Never in the one hundred and eighteen years of Lexington High School history has there been such a dynamic period. We are seeing a new kind of school emerge, one that sees education as an experience in living rather than an isolated intellectual exercise. The school thus becomes a part of the community and the community part of the school.

Your class has not only experienced these changes but has also participated in their initiation. It might be interesting to review some of the innovations that members of the Class of 1972 have been involved in during their four years at Lexington High School.

The major change in school organization has been the shift from a horizontal to a vertical basis for assignment of students to units. This was accomplished in your junior year on the recommendation of a student-faculty committee that had worked most of the previous year studying both arrangements in this and other schools. Modification of our level structure, including the abandonment of the AP label, has also evolved on the recommendation of a student-faculty levels committee.

Accompanying the change in unit organization, a new design for student government and for student-faculty participation in school affairs was created by a task force of students appointed by the SGO in the spring of 1970. The resulting Student-Faculty Government was initiated in 1970-1971. Its major contribution in that year was the creation of an Open Campus Steering Committee to carry out the necessary groundwork for the eventual institution of such a program.

Curricular changes during your four years at Lexington High School have included the launching of the EWOW program, the rapid development of elective opportunities in all departments, including the all-elective English program, and an innovative Physical Education program for juniors and seniors.

Another significant change has been the shift from PTA to PTSA, with greater emphasis on student involvement and informal discussion meetings for students, teachers, and parents. Out of these meetings developed the Summer Cooperative Program, which hopefully will become a permanent institution.

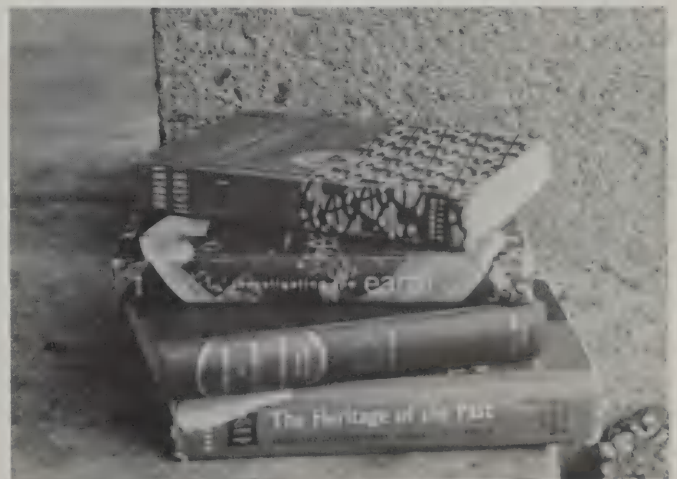

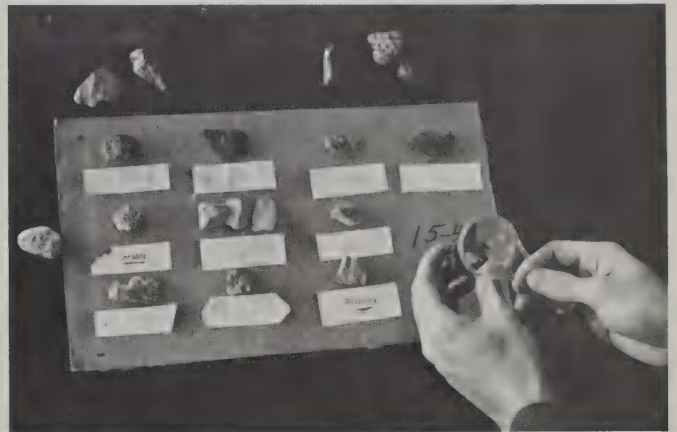

Your class has not only "broken the ice" in student participation but has also helped to create the machinery and the precedent for assuring ever-increasing opportunities for student leadership and involvement. You have made a significant impact not only within the school but also in the school department and town government. The service of a member of your class on the School Committee was a notable "first" which may have triggered the appointment of a Student Advisory Committee to the Board of Selectmen. Future classes will be indebted to you for your pioneering in this important extension of the educational program at Lexington High School. The expression "Education Without Walls" is having a more and more prophetic ring.

Charles C. Johnson, Principal

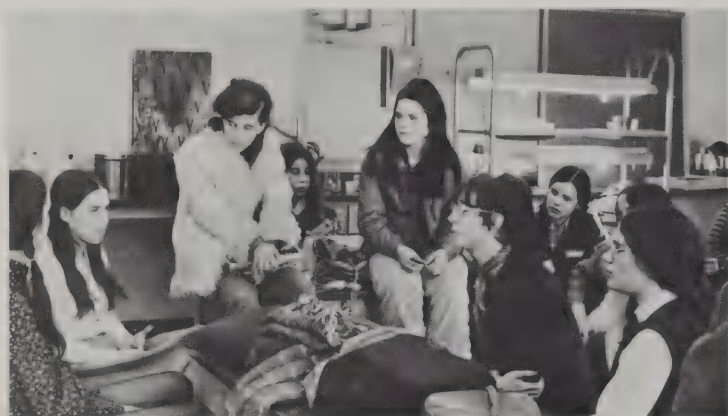

1968-1969

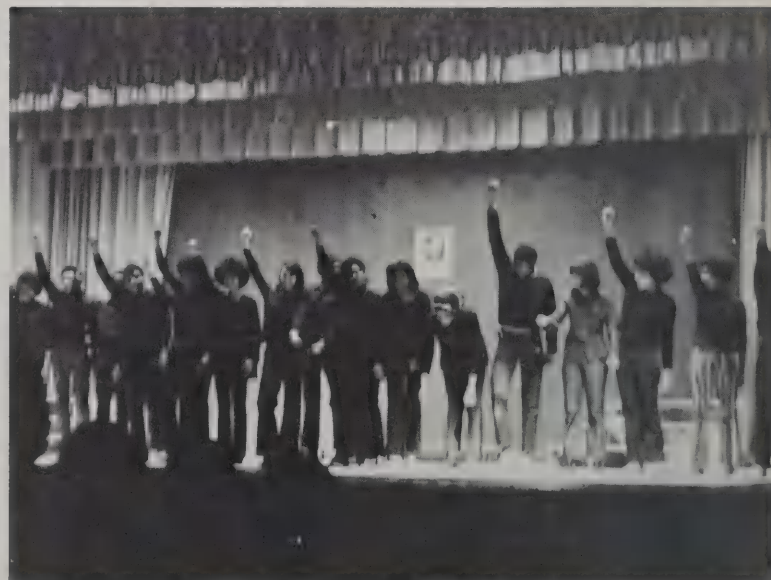

Four years ago we came to LHS, many of us somewhat frightened and insecure. We elected our first class officers and had our own freshman athletic teams. The Dick Gregory lecture and South Pacific introduced many of us to high school functions. We formed a class council, and our production of The Fantastiks was among the year's highlights. As students from two different junior highs, we began to merge into one group. The maze of buildings and unfamiliar faces seemed unconquerable at times, but somehow we managed to make it through the year.

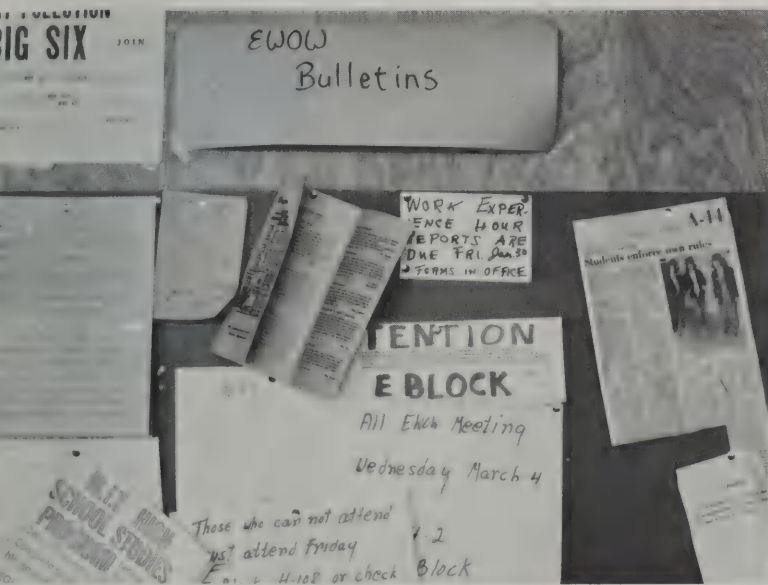

1969-1970

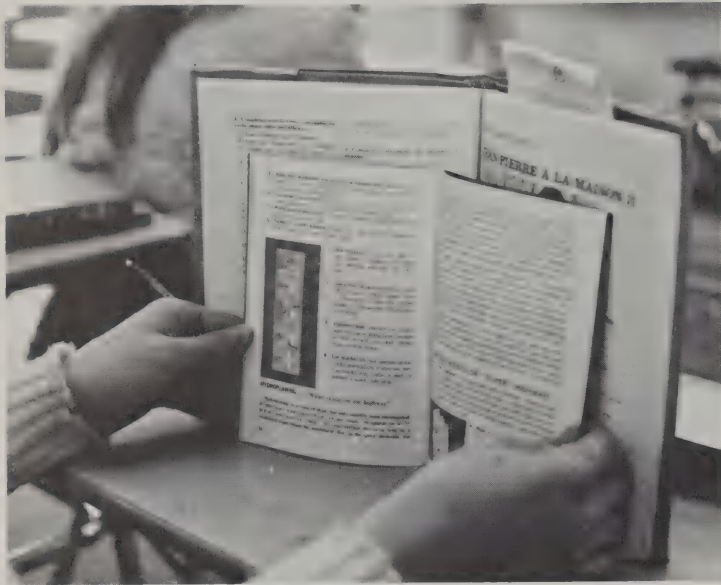

1969-1970 marked the birth of EWOW and the Black Studies program. We sought change through the October Moratorium, Mr. Johnson's Open Meetings, and plans for the April Ecology Teach-In. The school prepared for a new unit organization to go into effect in 1970-1971. A successful year in sports achieved for us the Middlesex League All-Sports Trophy. As sophomores, we began to feel a part of the school. Gradually the buildings around us changed into people and faces we would never forget.

1970-1971

We became more aware of our individuality and our responsibilities during our junior year. Licenses, jobs, and underclass privileges helped us realize our increasing independence. The prom, SAT's, the Junior Show, and cheering our basketball team on to a victory in the States made the year especially memorable. Greater involvement advanced us toward uniqueness, but graduation still seemed so far away.

College Board Achievement Tests (Scholastic Aptitude Test and Achievement Tests) will be given on:		In addition, the Scholastic Aptitude Test will be given in the United States on:	Test fees: Scholastic Aptitude Test $5.00 Achievement Test $4.00
December 7, 1960 March 1, 1961 July 18, 1961	January 11, 1961 May 2, 1961	November 8, 1960 The Achievement Tests will not be given on November 8.

Almost suddenly we found ourselves seniors, suffering from a slump we started months too early but loving every minute of it. Four years ago we joined to pursue a common goal. Seeking maturity we have grown into one—Lexington 1972. Here we are together for the last time.

Our four years at LHS are now over. With what we have learned here--from our teachers, from our friends, and from ourselves--we will begin to mold our future.

Behind us we leave familiar scenes, faces, and traditions to greet scores of new challenges and experiences. We emerge as individuals, taking with us the memory of having been a part of Lexington 1972.

Lexington 1972 Lexington High School Lexington, Massachusetts

Cover drawing by Rin Sasaki

Each page of Lexington 1972 is the product of countless hours of work on the part of a great number of people. Each individual involved in the creation of this book deserves recognition, but it would be impossible to give everyone the credit he deserves. There are two people, however, whose efforts and dedication have proved invaluable: Mike Meller and Yvonne Chao.

Mr. Roswell Farnham of Wm. J. Keller Inc. deserves our most sincere appreciation for his great patience and advice. Life-saving photographs from Mr. Tom Curran of the Lexington Minute-man have rescued us from several crises. To Harvard Studio we are most thankful for their photography and photo-finishing service, and, without the kind cooperation of the administration and the faculty, creation of many of the book's pages would have been impossible. Finally, we extend our deepest gratitude to our advisor, Mr. Neil Gray, for all his guidance and concern. My thanks go to everyone who made Lexington 1972 a reality.

A.S.
